NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS.—The Ohio State Fair as usual attracted tens of thousands of visitors to the Capital City, a large percentage of whom visited the Capitol building inspected the state offices. Boys and Girls clubs predominated and the youngsters enjoyed sight-seeing tours to several of the state institutions.

Governor George White and Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown have been meeting on the same speakers platform the past several days, but politics was tabooed in their addresses. Friday afternoon both officials assisted in the official opening of the super-highway connecting Canton and Akron, ten miles in length and forty feet wide. Saturday the two state officials were the guests of residents of Putnam county at the 50th "Pioneer Day" celebration at Kalida. Civil Service Commissioner A. P. Sandals was also an honored guest, it being his native county. A pioneer celebration in Northwest Ohio would hardly be a success without his presence and he has possibly spoken at more of these celebrations than any other citizen of the state.

If the good house wives of this great commonwealth were allowed to visit the kitchens of the Ohio Penitentiary they would find experts engaged in canning tomatoes, beans, corn, beans, carrots and other vegetables. In addition they are putting up fruit and making large quantities of jellies. The containers used were made in the tin shop and thus it is an inside job from start to finish. The menu at the prison is changed daily and the food is prepared in an appetizing manner being most palatable and wholesome.

H. G. Southard, M. D., Director of the State Department of Health, says that the recent increase in the death rate from tuberculosis may possibly be due to the part of all interested in the tuberculosis control. This is the time when the tuberculosis bacillus is most active.

The State Department of Health has not been able to hear the full burden of expense for vehicles as has been the custom in the past. However, he is anxious that the work continue, and is willing to co-operate insofar as finances will permit.

According to Clarence J. Brown, Secretary of State, under whose jurisdiction the Bureau of Motor Vehicles operates, the registration of most classes of cars and trailers in the first six months of 1931 was behind 1930. In the case of passenger cars, the number of registrations was 1 per cent. In the case of trucks and passenger-commercial vehicles the decline was about two-thirds of one per cent. The number of separate dealer establishments is about 18 per cent lower than a year ago. Auto-leader registrations, however, did not follow the general trend, but increased by about 40 per cent. This is notable, coming at a time when special attention is being paid to the handling of inter-city freight.

Work on the new state office building in North Front street is being pushed rapidly but it is hardly probable that any of the various departments, now scattered over the city, will be able to move in early in the year. Indeed it may be well towards the end of the year before they find a permanent home in this new edifice.

"Save the Surplus" Campaign Is Now On

"A Save the Surplus" campaign has been organized in the county with the election of Miss Ruth Bradford, the county home demonstration agent, as chairman. The project will be carried into every township in the county. It is proposed to have the work carried on by the different church organizations, lodges and civic groups.

The canned products will be distributed by the Red Cross, township trustees, boards of education in each township and the Social Service organization in Xenia.

Vegetables and fruits will be canned as there is an overabundance of each in every township. About seventy-five persons were in attendance at the organization meeting.

Goes To Sleep and Then Goes Into Ditch

J. W. Thompson, colored, who gives his address as Cedarville, claims to have fallen asleep at the wheel and run into a ditch at 5 o'clock Sunday morning near Wilkesboro. He is said to have been in Wilkesboro and was found lying face down in the ditch. He had several bad cuts which were dressed by Dr. Ray.

HAGAR COMPANY HAS MODERN POWER PLANT

The Hagar Straw Board & Paper Co. is now operating at full capacity with the new power plant in full operation. The equipment is of the turbine type and the entire plant is now operated by electricity which is generated by the turbine system. The plant was installed by the Westinghouse Co., Pittsburgh, and is the latest word in power equipment. A fine grade of straw board is now being made and at a saving in cost. The new plant requires only a small amount of fuel and operates daily as under the old method. The used steam from the turbine is used again in cooking the straw and also in drying the rolls in making the paper. From the standpoint of efficiency the new plant is the most modern power purposes to be found in the county. General Manager W. W. Galloway informs us that at some future date he hopes to announce one or two open nights when delegations can be escorted through the mill not only to inspect the new power system but the entire plant.

COLLEGE OPENS FOR 36TH YEAR WEDNESDAY

Cedarville College opened Wednesday for the thirty-sixth year. The opening address was by Rev. W. P. Harriman, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who spoke on the "Flaming Youth" at the chapel exercises. His picture of the opportunity and the responsibility of youth left many suggested problems that the youth of today must solve in the tomorrow. The younger generation must be the leaders of tomorrow and the older generation must be the followers of today. He made an urgent appeal to the young people to prepare themselves to meet the challenge of the future. The responsibility of duty was never so great as today when the entire nation was in a period of unrest. The chapel service was opened by Rev. E. A. Jamieson, who gave the invocation. The scripture was read by Rev. Carl White, pastor of the Yellow Springs Presbyterian church and the devotions by President McChesney.

A piano duet "Fanfare" was offered by the Misses Mary Margaret Macmillan and Ruth Kimball, students of the department of music. Rev. Paul Duncan of Coniterville, Ill., gave a brief talk.

Two new members of the faculty were introduced to the student body. D., Cedarville, graduate of the medical college of the University of Michigan, is the new professor of health, hygiene and anatomy.

COUNTY BANKS TO PAY TAXES ON DEPOSITS

By the action of the various banks in the county, the institutions will pay the tax on individual deposits under the new tax law starting in December. Such was the effect following of a resolution passed by representatives of the county banks at a meeting held in Xenia, Tuesday evening. Under the law the rate is fixed at $2 per thousand deposited and individual depositors will not be called upon to pay this tax. The question of interest rates was not fully decided upon but it is likely the rate will be lowered somewhat as much as the tax is to be paid by the bank. However this question is left open for individual banks to adopt its own policy as to interest on this being the annual meeting of the Greene County Bankers' Association the following officers were elected for the year: Lewis F. Tindall, cashier of the Exchange Bank, Cedarville, was chosen president, succeeding A. E. Faulkner, cashier of the Xenia Commercial and Savings Bank. Herbert C. Fisher, cashier of the Bowersville Bank, secretary. All of the nine banks in the county were represented at the meeting except the First National Bank at Osborn. The other banks are Spring Valley National Bank, Bowersville Bank; Miami Deposit Bank, Yellow Springs; Farmers and Traders Bank, Jamestown; Exchange Bank, Cedarville; Commercial and Savings, Xenia National and Citizens National, Xenia savings accounts.

School Cafeteria Opens Monday

The Cafeteria will open Monday, September 14. The price has been reduced to four cents. There is no assurance, however, that this price will remain unless a sufficient number patronize the cafeteria in order to have the necessary volume thereby maintained in the cafeteria.

A special plate luncheon will be served each Wednesday for fifteen cents. The Home Economics room has been completely screened, and with our Frigidaire we are fully equipped to serve the pupils during the entire school year. Also the Girls' Luncheon room is being supplied with additional seating capacity.

We suggest that parents consider seriously having their children secure their entire lunch in the cafeteria, since food prices have dropped considerably during the past year, and as a result the saving is passed on to the pupils. This makes the total cost very small, ranging from four to twenty cents.

MRS. T. R. TURNER DIED TUESDAY; BURIAL SATURDAY

Mrs. Jennie Morton Turner died at her home, 95 Quincey St., Quincy, Mass., Tuesday eve at six o'clock. Mrs. Turner was the sixth child of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Morton, formerly of Cedarville.

The deceased was born October 10, 1875. She attended the public schools of Cedarville and graduated from Cedarville High School in May, 1894. She entered Cedarville College in the fall of that year and graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in June 1899. She was also a graduate of the Department of Music the same year. Mrs. Turner taught public school music in Cedarville Township public schools for several years; following this she taught in Minneapolis Academy for two years.

On the sixteenth of December, 1905 she was united in marriage to Reverend Thomas Reed Turner, D. D. From this union two sons were born: Robert Morton Turner, who died in childhood, and Brenton Reed Turner, who graduated from Cedarville College last June with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Only one sister survives Mrs. Turner, namely, Mrs. W. R. McChesney, wife of President W. R. McChesney of Cedarville College. Carroll Morton, Calvin Morton, James and Mary Morton, her sister and brothers, have all preceded Mrs. Turner to their eternal home.

Mrs. Turner united with the Reformed Presbyterian Church, of which her father was the pastor, early in her childhood, and remained a member of that church until she and her husband moved to the Draytonburg Presbyterian Church, Draytonburg, Penn., where they both united with the Presbyterian Church. For the past thirteen years Dr. and Mrs. Turner have been in Quincy, Mass., where Dr. Turner is the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Turner was scholarly and especially talented in music, and often gave of her services in song in the church and other places. She was a faithful and consistent Christian throughout her life. She was hospitable in her home, and was a constant source of comfort and joy to her family. She was a devoted mother and a loving wife. Her death is a great loss to her family and to the church.

The remains will be brought to Cedarville, Saturday. The funeral services will be held at the home of President W. R. McChesney, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. Dr. W. P. Harriman will be in charge of the services and will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. David McKinney, formerly president of Cedarville College, and under whose administration Mrs. Turner graduated from that institution.

The burial will be in Masses Creek Cemetery. Funeral services were also held at her late residence in Quincy, Mass., Thursday.

Sedan and Truck Have Collision

A sedan and motor truck collided west of town Saturday evening and Mrs. Vladimir Juric, Cincinnati, was cut with glass over the right eye and on the neck. Mr. Juric passed two other cars and headed into the truck going west. The truck was loaded with fine cows that had been exhibited at the State Fair and they were being taken home by W. E. Stolz, Madisonville, O. It is claimed a jaw of one cow was broken by the impact but neither sedan or truck upset. The owner said the cow was a prize winner and was valued at $1,000.

A NEW ARMY IN FORMATION

We are told a new army of forty million mobilizes this week, having reference to the opening of public schools, public and private as well as colleges. Thirty-four million young folks enter the grade schools, five million enter high schools and one million enter colleges and universities. No other nation in the world has such a record. No other nation places as many requirements on parents and pupils leading to education as does the United States, and probably no nation has as many educated young folks. This brings us to the point of what is this education and we have borrowed the following which we believe fully describes it:

"I bear the torch that enlightens the world, fires the imagination of man, feeds the flame of genius, I give wings to dreams and might to hand and brain."

"From out the deep shadows of the past I come, wearing the scars of struggle and stripes of toil, but bearing in triumph the wisdom of all ages. Man, because of me, holds dominion over the earth, air and sea; it is for him I leash the lightning, plumb the deep and shackle the ether."

"I am the parent of progress, creator of culture, molder of destiny. Philosophy, science and art are the works of my hand. I banish ignorance, discourage vice, disarm anarchy."

"Thus have I become freedom's citadel, the arm of democracy, the hope of youth, the pride of adolescence, the joy of age. Fortunate the nations and happy the homes that welcome me."

"The school is my workshop; here I stir ambitions, stimulate ideals, forge the keys that open the door to opportunity. I am the source of inspiration; the air of aspiration. I am resistible power."

OLD REMEDIES STILL HOLD GOOD

As we scan the editorial pages we now and then find many suggestions of what is best to do to put business back to normal and give the people the prosperity that has been enjoyed. The ideas expressed and plans suggested are about as far apart as the sun and the moon and will come about giving relief as quick as if we were to say the sun and moon were to change places on a certain day. The depression is here, even a politician will admit that. For months he told you "prosperity was just around the corner." A good politician makes no rash promises today as to when business conditions will change. Many of the editorial writers of today were not on the firing line previous to 1900. Ballyhoo and camouflage failed during the spread of seven years of the ninety panic. It will not work today. We find a reprinted editorial sent out by the National Editorial Association as interesting because it is much in contrast with the views in many publications:

"In the stress of these depressed times many folks have almost lost their heads in seeking some method by which we can come back out on the plane of normal times. Freak methods, fads, panaceas, legislation and all that sort of thing are just so much delay in the path of prosperity. The old remedies still hold good and it is not by hitting on something new but getting back to the old, the sound and fundamental principles upon which America was founded, that we are going to work out our future."

"Hard work, sacrifice, honesty, privation, saving, management and the principles of the Christian religion are the rules for success which our forefathers used to conquer a wilderness and lay the foundation for the greatest nation in the world today. Prosperity brought with it the dreams of short cuts of fame and fortune. America chased the bubble until it burst and now most of us are sitting down trying to think of some short cut or scheme to get back on prosperity's road again. We need rather to get back sound common sense."

The world has changed but the principles upon which civilization was founded have not changed. The inequalities under which we are now chafing are the result of our disobeying the fundamental principles listed above. Instead of further fooling ourselves by following some of the many who are proposing unsound ideas about the return of prosperity, let's get back to the old remedies. They will still hold good if we but apply them."

A GOVERNMENT BOND ISSUE OR REDUCTION?

The proposal to issue bonds to the amount of one billion dollars by the federal government is not meeting any more favor than the proposal for increased taxes such as income, a tax on tobacco products, additional tax on gasoline, or any of the other proposals. Government income is shrinking like that of the farmer that found no profit on thirty cent wheat. The deficit now is near a billion dollars and official Washington is looking on the situation as serious.

The cry of federal and state officials has been that local governments like cities, villages, townships and boards of education should make drastic cuts. However states and the federal government keep on spending and finding new places to spend to "stimulate prosperity." Ohio fell in line when the legislature cut budget requests. A former administration had left the state almost bankrupt. The federal government has not moved in the economy direction. Millions and millions have been set aside for million dollar post office buildings. Finances are at low ebb and how to keep a balanced budget with income dropping each month has stirred federal authorities.

With banks over the entire country holding up on loans, with building and loan associations declining loans and holding on to deposits, how can the federal government find a sound reason for a billion dollar bond issue. The enormous loans to foreign governments, the withholding of payments on foreign war debts, has created a scarcity of money in this country for the ordinary transaction of public and private business. The federal government admits the situation when it begins three months ahead to urge formation of organizations in every community to feed the unemployed. The government cannot go on spending on public buildings at the expense of the tax paying public and at the same time urge people to prepare to feed the unemployed. Tax money comes out of the pockets of the people and there are many that look at the next paying period with some trembling and fear, as their income has been greatly reduced.

IF YOU NEED PRINTING DROP IN

Did you observe the heavy traffic Saturday, Sunday and Monday? Did it impress you that we are in the midst of a depression? The week-end traffic over Labor Day is always very heavy but from indications there was little difference over last year. If all the people that were riding over the week-end have employment, things must not be as bad as pictured or as the traveling salesmen in won't to say: "Business is picking up."

A broker from a neighboring city dropped in on us several days ago and tried to interest a common news paper publisher to buy some of his choice first-class stocks for investment as if the publishing business was operating on a 1928 basis. In his argument he claimed that under ordinary circumstances we have 47,000,000 people regularly employed in the United States. At present, he says, only six million are unemployed with only one million on part time. The other forty million are drawing the usual weekly or monthly salary and what the companies he represents has to sell is demanded by the forty million, consequently his companies will continue to have good business and be in position to pay dividends. We take from the statements made that if the purchasing power of six million has been so reduced to bring on the depression and all but paralyze business, the other forty million now drawing pay must be holding a tight line on their money. It is proof that some method must be found to get the six million back on full spending basis before we reach "normal business."

One of the largest trailers for a Southern trucking company was on the street here Monday evening. It was twenty-nine feet long and weighed ten thousand pounds empty. The trailer was pulled by a motor tractor and was loaded with cotton for a rubber tire company in Akron. On its return to Birmingham it will carry a cargo of rubber tires. It had license plates for six states through which it operates and represents an investment of more than $15,000. The tax such a truck pays represents a big sum but the damage it does to a highway is far more than that of a hundred automobiles. The automobile owners are being taxed to provide and maintain a highway for freight purposes. Once upon a time you have heard the statement that the rural people were taxed to provide a highway for city joy riders but that is not true today. These big trucking companies are doing business at the expense of the motorist and in return the motorist is being forced off the road. Many of the trucks are loaded so heavy the driver must stay in the middle of the road or take the chance of upsetting.

When it comes to picking good stock you can always depend on Cedarville township. At the Ohio State Fair, which had the largest number of fine stock ever to be on one show ground in the history of the country, local breeders and feeders took a very prominent part. W. R. Watt with his Duroc herd, who has been showing at the State Fair for many years, picked off the largest number of winnings in a big field of herds from all sections of the country. His first herd is shown this week at the Maryland State Fair and the second at Dayton. Ferndale Farms reports good success at the big Columbus show where there was competition such as never known before. The Dobbins herd is being shown this week at the Dayton fair.

Delmar Jobe and John Davis have been connected with the management of the sheep department so long they are looked upon as fixtures in that department. Mr. Davis says that when he first became connected with the sheep department 1,000 head was regarded a big exhibit. This year it exceeded 2,700 head. A new sheep building was put in last year and is the largest in the country and was supposed to provide ample room for many years to come. This year it was impossible to care for the entries in the new structure and tents had to be provided.

T. C. Wolford informs us that he has been connected with the fair in various capacities for more than twenty years. He has witnessed many changes in management and the manner of conducting the big exhibition. He says exhibitors that visit other state fairs list the Ohio show as the greatest and the most outstanding in the country. You might relate what is being done from year to year by the various department heads to improve the fair but no department has grown more than that for cattle. R. D. Williamson gets the credit this year for successfully managing the biggest cattle show that was ever staged in the world. There is probably no one man in the country that is personally acquainted with as many cattle breeders as Mr. Williamson. The manner in which he handles so many herds to the satisfaction of breeders is regarded a mystery to all. There were exhibitors from Vermont to California and competition for honors is never as close in another cattle show as is to be found at the Ohio State Fair.

Frank Townsley and his son, Ralph exhibited a car of fat Herefords at the fair and they were auctioned at $9.25 per hundred. The lot averaged about 1,000 pounds. The demand for lighter or "baby beef" seems to be growing for lots averaging around 800 pounds seemed to be in demand. Allie Wildman sold one lot at auction in this class at $9.45. The Townsley shipment went to a chain grocery company for retail in the Columbus market.

The Xenia and London passenger motor bus made its final trip Wednesday noon. The Public Utilities Commission having granted permission to discontinue for the present at least. The bus company says declining business made operation unprofitable. So far no one has proposed a line to accommodate the traveling public. That such a line can be made profitable we do not doubt but there can be no business when the time schedule is arranged to suit the company only. The recent change in the schedule was not satisfactory to traveling men and the general public found it inconvenient. There being no business was the result of the change in schedule. One driver relates he lost eight daily patrons by the change. When transportation companies discover that a utility is for public use and when the public is pleased with the service the company will find the business profitable. There was no objection on the cost of fares, neither did the company ask for higher fares. The fault was we see it was with the company in trying to operate on a schedule that was unsatisfactory. In addition the equipment was nothing to brag about.

An acquaintance of ours was making much complaint about the cigarette tax several days ago. He was condemning both political parties for passing such a bill that is to provide revenue for the state government and part of which will go to the weak school districts if our memory serves us right. He looked upon the tax as class legislation and wrong in principle. It makes no difference what the smokers think of the tax it is there to stay. The politicians never overlook an opportunity to expand and with 48 new inspectors and a big office force it means Mr. Cigarette Smoker is in for the tax for time to come. It was said the tax would be for a short duration owing to depleted state revenue. We heard the same thing about gasoline tax, but it has been boosted several times and is still with us. The next move will be to increase the tax on cigarettes and include all tobacco products. But our friend who seriously objects to a tobacco tax insists that prosperity could be aided if we had four per cent beer and a government tax. The contract brings up a new argument between cigarette smokers and taxes on beer.

George Watson, Cleveland, dropped into town several days ago to call on a few of his old time friends and acquaintances. Mr. Watson is Superintendent of Terminals for the Railway Express Co. and has plenty to do as he has control of offices in many towns and cities covering several hundred miles of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania lines. George knows the express business from almost start to finish. He entered the service of the American Express Co. many years ago when there were three major companies. During the war all companies were combined in one company which is controlled now by the railroads. He has held many different positions and has worked faithfully for years, being rewarded by promotions that now find him in a commanding position. His headquarters is in Cleveland where he resides.

Corn cutting is at hand in some sections. Farmers have been busy filling their silos. Corn is being put in shock. Journeyman corn cutters from the southern part of the state are arriving and are bidding corn cutting at a low figure compared with a few years ago. Then corn cutting was twenty, twenty-five and thirty cents a shock. Today we hear it is being bid from five to ten cents a shock, depending on the size and how had it is down

J. Lloyd Conner when in Indianapolis on a recent visit, says he had the pleasure of a call on H. G. Fumsett, formerly of this place. Mr. Fumsett now conducts a complete automobile ambulance and funeral livery for undertakers in that city. His equipment is of the very latest and he is meeting with good success.

WORK had been scarce for George Johnson, but he knew that he was fit as good a position as anyone to get a job when it was available. He'd left his telephone number with all the contractors who'd previously employed him as a carpenter, and from time to time he received calls for short jobs.

The other night the foreman for one of his former employers called him about a job that will last until next spring, at least. George was on the job the next morning, ready for work.

The man who can be reached by telephone gets a job first, or gets the most work. Men in business today use the telephone—it is the logical way to get in touch with others.

A Smart Young Girl

Dine novel, no longer printed, occur in life's reality. Charles M. Rosen that, young hecker, was kidnapped, $100,000 demanded. He won $60,000 from his kidnappers at poker, got their I. O. U., reducing the ransom to $40,000 which his mother paid. The kidnapping "bait" was a "pretty" young woman, of light complexion, found living with a big, very big, black man, who she negro blood.

When the kidnapped young man was $50,000 at poker, two kidnappers vowed to shoot him. Numbers on the ransom bills caught the kidnappers, its light colored lady, and resolved $18,380 of the ransom. Is not that a super-dime novel.

Motion picture exhibitors say "Hollywood should be defatted," whatever that means, and object, especially to the salary of one young picture lady, supposed to get $30,000 a week. Perhaps she doesn't get so much, but if she does get it she earns it. The laborer is worthy of his hire, even under Klieg lights. Exhibitors want pictures that will fill theaters. If any actor can be worth $30,000 a week everybody should be gratified. Nothing is cheaper, no matter what it earns, than the exceptional personality.

An American from China admired the Chinese dogged patience and the courage even in terrific floods that made thirty million homeless, fifteen million destitute." It seems strange that after 5,000 years of civilisation China has not learned to control the Yang-tse and other great rivers. Then we remember humbly that with all our machinery and money we haven't learned to control the Mississippi.

Machinery will do it eventually, however, and as the late William Boyce Thompson predicted, will show up surplus flood waters in some inland sea, saving them for use in any drought.

Drink a toast, if only in a soda pop, to Miss Charlotte Hodgkinson, nineteen years old, who took flying lessons for 76 minutes, then flew by herself and did it well. It would almost cure your "depression blues" to see that young American girl waving her arms from the cockpit. Even the birds do not learn to fly as quickly as that, although they begin much younger.

Charter lines from Rome. Pope Pius XI and Mussolini, the powerful, agree on a settlement of the "Catholic Action" difficulty. Fifteen thousand church clubs will now reopen, forbidden, however, to engage in political activities, or even to have classes for sports. All that is reserved for Mussolini's young people. However, each side feels it has won, which indicates that the settlement is probably fair.

The American Chemical society, gathered at Buffalo, N. Y., is told by Professors Smyth of Princeton, Andrews of Johns Hopkins and Drury of Columbia university that with the reid men can hear the "dance of the finite"—in other words, the noise made by molecules and atoms as they move mysteriously. Each atom "sings its own melody and dances its own individual dance." The ancients talked of the "music of the spheres," meaning music produced by the rolling stars.

Man may become a complex animal, one ear listening to atoms, the other to suns a million times as big as the earth; one eye studying infinitely through the telescope, the other the finite "infra-world" through the micro scope. At the same time both ears and both eyes will tell him what is going on in his neighborhood. All interesting, but you hardly have time for it these depression days.

An able Du Pont Company chemist has developed a "synthetic dress goods fiber, like silk." The process sounds like "Alice of Wonderland," including castor oil, ethylene, glycol, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen. Synthetic silk is said to be "at least as good as real silk," and silk worms, dropped into hot water to make their cocoons unwind, will be glad to hear that. When will the Du Ponts announce "synthetic rubber" at $20 a ton?

The Pullman company, on its "Sportmen's Train" of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, installs foot rests for travelers. They ride comfortably, with feet raised, legs are stretched out, leaning back according to the American habit. A good idea. Our great American trouble is heart disease and the Pullman foot rest will help that. When your feet are up and you lean back, the blood flows horizontally, instead of perpendicularity, and the strain on your heart is less. Do your thinking and working lying down if you can, especially in old age.
